

Impact of Globalization on Emerging Markets in International Trade

Vijay Kumar Agarwal<sup>1</sup> and Dr. Mohan Lal Dhaka<sup>2</sup>

Research Scholar, Department of Management<sup>1</sup>

Research Guide, Department of Management<sup>2</sup>

NIILM University, Kaithal, Haryana, India

Abstract: Through international trade activities, a bond of dependence will be established between nations. One scenario in which a nation may require commodities that are possessed by other nations but cannot be produced independently is when such commodities are available on the global market. The objective of this study was to comprehend and elucidate the "Analysis of the Effects of Globalization on International Trade." An examination of this is a normative or literature study that employs a variety of techniques. Conducting qualitative analysis involves describing the data in the form of sentences and statements to facilitate comprehension and facilitate reading. The findings of the analysis may reveal influential factors on international trade and the effects of globalization on international trade, such as the presence of multinational corporations. play a critical role in the realm of international investment and trade, as well as potentially influence international trade in a positive or negative way.

Keywords: Globalization, International trade, Market access